EXECUTIVE EDUCATION

I have worked extensively in public and custom executive education programs for Cranfield School of Management in the UK, the Middle East and North America (Arizona State University). In this role, I worked closely with many international companies across a broad range of industries.

As course director and lead faculty for many of these programs I have learned to negotiate and develop bespoke courses for corporate clients. Drawing on my experience and expertise I provided clients with effective solutions to their issues. Using a collaborative approach to relationship building I learned to secure new contracts and extend existing ones.
