

Notice the marks and patterns in this headdress by Laylah Ali.

The Thenceforward kids' gallery guide and workshops have been made possible with support from the Kathleen and Frank Thometz Charitable Foundation.

Complete this headdress with your own marks and patterns.

cover image

Mark Wagner
American, b. 1976
Liberty, (panel #6, detail), 2009
Currency collage on panel
204 x 75"
Courtesy of an anonymous collector

In what ways are these two images by Elisabeth Subrin the same?

---

---

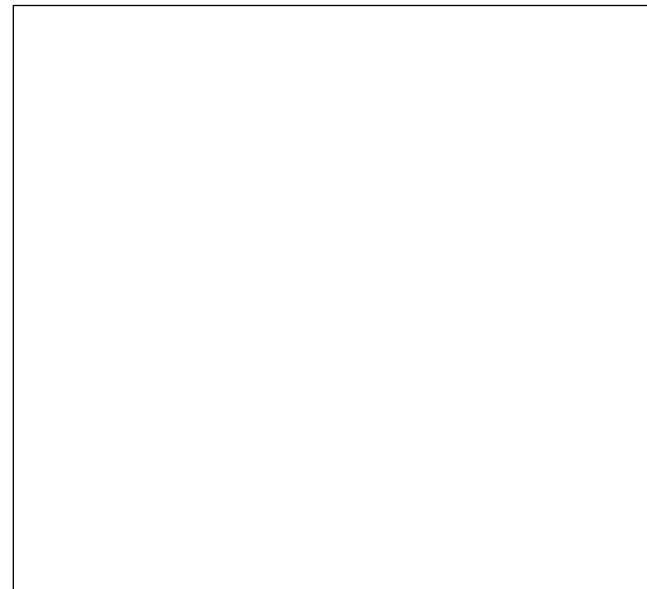

How are they different?

---

---

Here is a drawing of shooting stars by Gary Simmons.

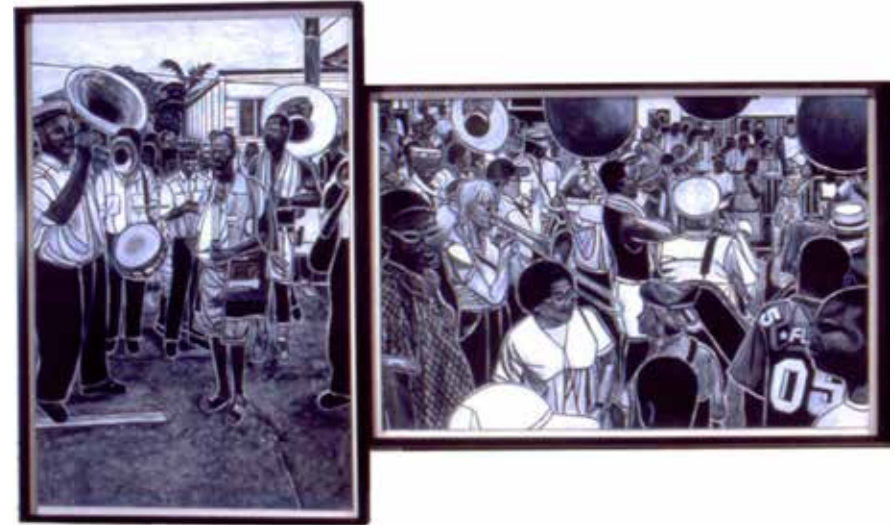

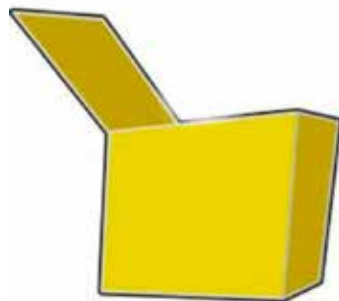

Draw your own picture of shooting stars.

A jack-in-the-box is a toy containing a figure on a spring that pops out of a box when the lid is opened.

Michael Ray Charles used a zebra for his popping toy. Create your own jack-in-the-box toy springing out of the yellow box below.

How many musical instruments do you see in these two panels from Labor Day Parade by Willie Birch? _____

What are the names of the instruments?

---

---

---

---

How many times does George Washington appear in this collage by Mark Wagner?

---

What is he doing?

---

---

---

Kara Walker often uses silhouettes in her artwork.

Silhouettes are simple outline drawings or cutouts, often of a face in profile.

Draw a silhouette of your face or a friend's face.

Make your own drawings inspired by
Thenceforward, and Forever Free.

Make your own drawings inspired by
Thenceforward, and Forever Free.

Haggerty Museum of Art

Marquette University

13th and Clybourn Streets

414-288-1669

www.marquette.edu/haggerty