

Title of Talk: Stronger Together: Creating High Quality Mentoring Relationships for Female Faculty

Date: Thursday April 19th 4-5 PM (CST)

Zoom Link: TBA

This interactive workshop will help us develop more effective mentoring relationships. We will gain a personal understanding of the characteristics of high-quality mentoring and how to create more effective mentoring relationships. We will also gain a shared appreciation of how peer mentoring supports and promotes women's advancement and professional growth in academic settings.

Speaker: Dr. Belle Rose Ragins is the Sheldon B. Lubar Professor of Management at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. She is an expert in the fields of mentoring, diversity and positive relationships at work. Dr. Ragins has written more than 100 papers for presentations and publications and has co-authored books on mentoring and positive relationships at work. She is an elected Fellow of five professional associations, a Fulbright Senior Specialist Scholar and the past Editor of the Academy of Management Review. Dr. Ragins has received numerous life-time achievement, service, and teaching awards. Her research has garnered more than 23,000 citations and she is included in Stanford University's list of the top 2% the world's most-cited scientists. She started her career at Marquette, met her husband Erik there, and is forever grateful for both of these blessings.
