

Mark LaViolette - Deloitte

Mark LaViolette is a supply chain expert in the Deloitte's Government and Public Services Practice with proven experience leading programs in support of national security focused on capability development, technology adoption, and advanced manufacturing. He is a proven navigator of complex Department of Defense (DoD) decision-making processes including requirements development, resourcing, and acquisition governance. He is a professional services industry expert connecting clients to Advanced Manufacturing Public Private Partnerships (PPP) including Manufacturing USA and Manufacturing Extension Partnerships (MEP). Before joining Deloitte, Mark retired from the Marine Corps as Colonel having served as a career logistician.