

Spring 2011 Honors Convocation

On Wednesday, April 13, 2011, the College of Professional Studies celebrated its first Honors Convocation. Prior honors celebrations were held annually in the spring to recognize undergraduate students. This year, however, the college recognized academic honors and accomplishments of undergraduate and graduate students and undergraduate and graduate faculty members.

ALPHA SIGMA NU SPRING 2011 INDUCTEES

Scholarship ♦ Loyalty ♦ Service

Founded in 1915 at Marquette University, Alpha Sigma Nu (ASN) advances the core principles of Jesuit education—scholarship, loyalty and service. This national honor society acknowledges, awards and inspires a select group of students who distinguish themselves with respect to these principles while attending Jesuit institutions of higher education. ASN is one of the highest honors that can be given on a Jesuit campus. ASN also honors others who have distinguished themselves in scholarship, loyalty and service through their intellectual, civic, religious, professional or commercial pursuits. Our newest College of Professional Studies undergraduate students were officially inducted at Marquette University's ASN ceremony on Saturday, 16, 2011.
