We Are Marquette …

“The Marquette faculty is committed to preparing young leaders in urban settings. They are nurturing and understand the demands of the working professional.”
Darrell Burns, Master’s student, EDPL

“The faculty at Marquette have challenged me to grow both personally and as a young professional in the field of counseling psychology. They have encouraged me to take leadership positions, which has given me the confidence to approach any endeavor.”
Ana Garcia, Ph.D. student, COEP

“My studies at Marquette in both the undergraduate and graduate programs, provided me with practical experiences as I began my career in education. Both faculty members and classmates enhance my learning as I worked to see that all children in my school earned a valuable education.”
Santiago Navarro, Graduate, EDPL

“Becoming a Marquette student is one of the best decisions I have ever made in my life. My education at Marquette is much more than increasing my knowledge in a particular subject area; it has been a journey of self discovery to realize my life’s purpose. The community of educators at MU seeks to foster the development of the individual in every aspect of their life…and this is why I chose Marquette.”
Shenita Ray, Master’s student, EDPL

A Tanzanian Military Officer told me during my National Service Days: “When you aim high your failure will be a success, when you aim low your success will be a failure.” Throughout my academic journey, the SOE has transformed my goal of aiming high to be successful. How? The interaction with faculty members and students in my program always makes my academic journey easier to bear. Now, I don’t see my skin color that much because the SOE works hard to create an atmosphere that reflects diversity.
Sr. Theonestina Katundano, Doctoral student, EDPL

PROGRAMS IN THE SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

MASTER’S PROGRAMS:

Instructional Leadership (Curriculum and Instruction):
- Flexible, student-centered program designed to meet the needs of practicing teachers in the 21st century.
- Emphasizes the development of teacher leadership within schools, organizations and communities

College Student Personnel:
- Offers preparation for careers in colleges, professional organizations, and entities advocating post-secondary education.
- Students develop progressive leadership skills that emphasize the ideals of care and respect for all students, particularly in the areas of racial and social justice.

Educational Leadership:
- Designed to enhance the leadership and administrative skills of current and aspiring administrators in K-12 schools and post-secondary institutions and agencies.
- Certificate programs available for principal, director of instruction, and reading specialist.

Counseling:
- Comprehensive preparation for professional practice as a counselor or therapist.
- Choose from Community Counseling, Child and Adolescent Counseling, Alcohol and Drug Counseling, or School Counseling.

DOCTORAL PROGRAMS

Counseling Psychology
- Fully accredited by the American Psychological Association, the program provides comprehensive preparation for university and college teaching and for professional practice.
- Received the 2002 Department of the Year Award from the American Psychological Association of Graduate Students for outstanding commitment to graduate education.

Education Policy and Leadership Studies
- Designed to foster the development of scholar-practitioners who work as teachers and leaders in higher education and K-12 schools.
- Focus on educational research grounded in studies of history, sociology, politics and culture.

“I’ve had a very positive and rewarding experience as a first-semester student in the Master’s Program in the School of Education. The caring support from faculty and challenging curriculum helped me to enhance existing skills in my professional career and gave me insight into the various career opportunities in higher education, especially in Student Affairs.”
Ramona Johnson, Master’s student, EDPL

“I’ve had a very positive and rewarding experience as a first-semester student in the Master’s Program in the School of Education. The caring support from faculty and challenging curriculum helped me to enhance existing skills in my professional career and gave me insight into the various career opportunities in higher education, especially in Student Affairs.”
Ramona Johnson, Master’s student, EDPL

“I’ve had a very positive and rewarding experience as a first-semester student in the Master’s Program in the School of Education. The caring support from faculty and challenging curriculum helped me to enhance existing skills in my professional career and gave me insight into the various career opportunities in higher education, especially in Student Affairs.”
Ramona Johnson, Master’s student, EDPL

“I’ve had a very positive and rewarding experience as a first-semester student in the Master’s Program in the School of Education. The caring support from faculty and challenging curriculum helped me to enhance existing skills in my professional career and gave me insight into the various career opportunities in higher education, especially in Student Affairs.”
Ramona Johnson, Master’s student, EDPL
We hope the information in this brochure has sparked your interest in the many excellent graduate programs offered by Marquette University’s School of Education. These programs are designed for the training of students who want to Be the Difference in their work as educators, counselors and student affairs practitioners. Consistent with the Jesuit tradition, Marquette faculty and staff demonstrate their care for each student by supporting them in their development and transformation into leaders and agents for social change in the global community.

I invite you to join us here at one of the country’s most prestigious Catholic universities and immerse yourself in the Marquette experience. Please contact the School of Education for further information or visit our website at: www.marquette.edu/education/

Michelle McClure, Ph.D.
Assistant Professor
Educational Policy and Leadership